

SUPPLIER STANDARDS OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

Revised October 15, 2017

Overview and Goals

Ceragon's success is built upon its commitment to act with the highest ethical standards and to conduct business honestly and legally. These Standards of Business Practice (the "Standards") are created to establish the framework for legal and ethical compliance by Ceragon's suppliers ("Suppliers"). We expect not only our employees to act ethically and to comply with the law, but also that all of our Suppliers understand the importance of combining best business practices with the highest of ethical standards. These Standards are intended to raise awareness of, and sensitivity to, ethical concerns, and while detailed, are not exhaustive.

It is your responsibility to safeguard against legal and ethical violations and to take appropriate action if you suspect that illegal or unethical business conduct has occurred or is occurring. Engaging in illegal or unethical business conduct can have serious consequences for you, including adverse action up to and including termination of Ceragon's relationship with you, and even criminal or civil penalties.

Anti Bribery Laws

Although Ceragon is an Israeli company, by virtue of its securities being registered with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and being publicly traded on the NASDAQ stock exchange, Ceragon is subject to the anti-bribery provisions of the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act ("FCPA") and is otherwise committed to the OECD Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials in International Business Transactions. Suppliers working on behalf of Ceragon must comply with the FCPA, as well as relevant local laws dealing with bribery of government officials.

The anti-bribery provisions prohibit payment of any money, offer, gift, promise to give, or authorization of the giving of "anything of value" to: (i) an official for purposes of influencing any act or decision of such official in his official capacity, inducing such official to do or omit to do any act in violation of the lawful duty of such official, or securing any improper advantage; (ii) any political party or official thereof or any candidate for political office for any of the purposes mentioned above; or (iii) any person, while knowing that all or a portion of such money or thing of value will be offered, given, or promised to an official for any of the purposes mentioned above.

"Anything of value" under the FCPA is any advantage and is not limited to property. It can be non-monetary or non-tangible inducement and it can include such items as travel expenses, donations to charity, loans and gifts above a reasonable amount. Additionally, the use, directly or indirectly, of Company funds for political contributions to any organization or to any candidate for public office is strictly prohibited.

Export Controls

The United States and Israel are among a number of countries maintaining controls on the destinations to which products or software may be exported. Both the U.S. and Israeli regulations are complex and apply both to exports from the United States and sometimes to exports of products from other countries. No products or software may be sold in and no business or other dealing on behalf of the Company may be done with any person, entity or property related to certain embargoed countries, these countries currently are Cuba, Syria, Lebanon, Sudan, North Korea or Iran, including nationals thereof wherever located. The Company reserves the right to expand or contract the list of prohibited or restricted countries as appropriate at any time to comply with applicable law or otherwise.

Gifts, Hospitality and Expenses

Employees of Ceragon may not accept anything more than modest gifts, meals and entertainment from Suppliers. You should avoid offering, promising or giving anything of value to any Ceragon employee. Customary or seasonal gifts of modest value such as congratulatory flowers or fruit baskets are permitted as are moderately and reasonably priced meals in the framework of conducting business. Cash, gift certificates, loans etc. may never be given.

Anything of value may be any advantage and is not limited to tangible property. It can be non-monetary or non-tangible inducement and it can include such items as travel expenses, donations to charity, flight upgrades, hiring a family member, free tickets to events, free use of facilities, free provision of goods and services etc.

Hospitality or free-of-charge equipment or training for customers or contractors is permitted provided that it is clearly specified in writing in a sales or services contract with the customer or the contractor. If so specified in a contract, such free items will not be considered illegal or unethical gifts.

Any other tips, gratuities, hospitality, gifts and promotions that are not standard or customary require advance written approval by Ceragon's Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer or General Counsel.

Avoiding Conflict of Interest

Conflicts of interest should be always avoided. Employees may not participate in any activities that could conflict with their responsibilities at Ceragon. Therefore, employees may not work for, or have any relationship, financial or otherwise, with any Supplier while working for Ceragon or do any work for, or provide assistance to, a Supplier that may adversely affect their performance or judgment to act in Ceragon's best interests. If a Supplier employee is a family relation (spouse, parent, sibling, grandparent, child, grandchild, mother- or father-in-law, or same or opposite sex domestic partner) to a Ceragon employee, or if a Supplier has any other relationship with a Ceragon employee that might represent a conflict of interest, the Supplier should disclose this fact to Ceragon or ensure that the Ceragon employee does so.

Business Partners

Our aim in conducting our operations is to assure continuing, reliable sources of supply, whether it be for components, accessories, assembly, services or for any other of the products supplied through our complex supply chain or services required to run our business. Honest dealing with our business customers and suppliers is essential to sound, lasting relationships. We view our suppliers as our business partners. We give all potential suppliers fair and uniform consideration and expect the same in return. Decisions from both parties shall always be based on objective criteria such as price and quality as well as reliability and integrity. Kickbacks, bribes or similar payments of any sort are prohibited. Ceragon and the Supplier should always act in a manner that demonstrates the highest level of integrity, honesty and fair dealing.
